

The East Devon Way

A MEMORABLE WALKING EXPERIENCE

Discover the rich variety of wildlife and landscape that make up the outstanding countryside of East Devon

View towards the river Exe and Lympstone from Woodbury

The East Devon Way links together footpaths, bridleways and quiet country lanes to create a route that winds inland through gently undulating country to link Exmouth and Lyme Regis.

Giving spectacular views the route crosses open heathland, passes through ancient woodland and follows the sides of streams. The rich variety of underlying geology through out the route supports a wealth of plant life with a corresponding variety of animal life that is dependent upon it.

The Way also gives an insight to East Devon's ancient past, passing by pre-historic hill forts, bronze age burial mounds, Saxon villages and Medieval manors.

The 40 mile (64km) route can be broken up into day long walks serviced by local buses or there is ample accommodation along the way. The Way can also be used as an arterial route from which a number of circular walks can be followed to further aid the discovery of this enchanting area.

The East Devon Way was developed by East Devon District Council, in 1991, to showcase the magnificent scenery and wildlife that make up the East Devon Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. The route is clearly marked with the foxglove logo.

An official guide for the East Devon Way is available from Tourist Information Centres in East Devon or from Discover Devon Information Service P.O.Box 55, Barnstable EX31 1HY.
